

Each bar represents a precision-weighted average estimate for each outcome type, comparing our main specification to different modelling assumptions.